BROADWAY

Barbie

July 2023

After weeks of glorious sunshine, summer is now well underway and we've got a packed film programme in July to help you make the most of the longer days.

Margot Robbie takes the title role in the film of the summer - after months of anticipation, Greta Gerwig's Barbie finally hits our screens on Friday 21 July.

It's a big month at Broadway as Christopher Nolan's latest epic thriller Oppenheimer also opens on the same weekend. Cillian Murphy stars in the story of the American physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer and his role in developing the atomic bomb.

Throughout July, we're celebrating the recent release of Wes Anderson's Asteroid City with a season of some of our favourites from the director's distinctive back catalogue, in The Cinema of Wes Anderson - starting with his 1996 debut Bottle Rocket.

Lots of you loved our Double Take season last summer, so we're very pleased to present our next "weird weekend" in July - Something Wild celebrates cinematic chaos and excess, from the eye-popping absurdity of Dario Argento's Inferno to the outright anarchy of Věra Chytilová's Daisies.

With all of this and plenty more to pick from, we hope to see you in our screens and out on the terrace over the next few weeks!

The Cinema of Wes Anderson

This month, to celebrate the recent release of his latest film Asteroid City, we're delving into the back catalogue of Wes Anderson, whose films are characterised by his impossibly keen eye for detail, deadpan humour and the ever-growing troupe of actors he regularly works with.

SUN 2 JULY, 4.30PM

Bottle Rocket (15)

Director: Wes Anderson
Starring: Luke Wilson, Owen Wilson

Wes Anderson's 1996 debut - based on his short film of the same name - was co-written by and stars the director's university roommate Owen Wilson, and marks the first of many collaborations between the two. It follows three best friends who attempt to escape their suburban boredom by staging a wildly complex, mildly successful robbery of a small bookstore - and then go on the run.

Year: 1996
Country: USA
Duration: 91 minutes

SUN 9 JULY, 8.30PM

Rushmore (15)

Director: Wes Anderson
Starring: Lason Schwartzman, Bill Murray

The second collaboration between Wes Anderson and Owen Wilson, their coming-of-age comedy is loosely based on the pair's experiences of attending elite prep schools in Texas. It stars Jason Schwartzman as 15-year-old Max Fischer - an academic underachiever but extracurricular king of Rushmore Academy - who finds himself competing for the affections of first-grade teacher Miss Cross with local steel tycoon Herman Blume.

Duration: 89 minutes

SUN 16 JULY, 7.15PM

The Royal Tenenbaums (15)

Director: Wes Anderson
Starring: Gene Hackman, Anjelica Huston

Wes Anderson's third film (and for many, his best) brings together a brilliant ensemble cast - combining established Hollywood stars Gene Hackman and Anjelica Huston with then newer talents Ben Stiller, Gwyneth Paltrow and, of course, the Wilson brothers - as an estranged family of eccentric former child prodigies who reunite when their father announces he has a terminal illness.

SUN 23 JULY, 1PM

The Grand Budapest Hotel (15)

Director: Wes Anderson
Starring: Ralph Fiennes, F. Murray Abraham

Wes Anderson's lovingly crafted comedy caper recounts the adventures of Gustave H., a legendary concierge at a famous continental hotel, and the lobby boy he befriends when he's wrongly framed for murder. With his immediately recognisable style and visual language now firmly established, Wes brings together a staggering seventeen actors who received star billing, including Tilda Swinton, Bill Murray and Adrien Brody.

A weird weekend of cinematic chaos and excess presented by Broadway and Kino Klubb.

From the opulent splashes of colour applied with abandon in Dario Argento's Inferno to Věra Chytilová's deliciously destructive approach to narrative in Daisies, this weekend we're uncovering some of our favourite examples of cinematic chaos and excess.

The line-up consists of films that defiantly wear their excess with style, made by filmmakers who revel in abundance. Join us for a mini season that criss-crosses history to delve into the filmographies of some of cinema's wildest and most flamboyant directors.

Curated by Kino Klubb's Joey Bell and Broadway's Kate Wood.

Tickets are 4-for-3. Offer available at Box Office only.

Something Wild

FRI 14 JULY, 8.15PM

The Lair of the White Worm – 35th Anniversary (18)

Director: Ken Russell
Starring: Amanda Donahue, Hugh Grant

Loosely based on Bram Stoker's novel and shot with director Ken Russell's trademark surreal style, The Lair of the White Worm mixes psychosexual and religious imagery with a 1970s British horror feel. It's got a giant monster, snake people, ancient buried evil, baby-faced Hugh Grant and Peter Capaldi, and its slithering tongue firmly in its cheek.
A film full of pure, indulgent, horrifying excess.

New York, New York + intro (PG)

Director: Martin Scorsese
Starring: Liza Minnelli, Robert De Niro

New York, New York is Martin Scorsese's lavish homage to the MGM musical, featuring grand artificial sets and swooning style. It's also a fascinating look at a director in the midst of his own journey of chaos and excess; Marty's cocaine addiction and lack of control on set would ultimately lead to a massively inflated budget and box office failure.

Something Wild

SAT 15 JULY, 8.15PM

Inferno & Invocation of My Demon Brother + intro (18)

Director: Dario Argento
Starring: Leigh McCloskey, Irene Miracle

With English subtitles

Inferno is a dazzling series of set pieces lacking in any kind of restraint; an absurd masterpiece of visual perfection that does away with the need for narrative structure. Argento invites you to enter a lurid world filled with flowing camera movements, abstract blocks of eye-popping colour, and unsettling sound effects.

SUN 16 JULY, 3.15PM

Daisies + intro (15)

Director: Věra Chytilová
Starring: Jitka Cerhová, Ivana Karbanová

With English subtitles

Two teenage girls, both named Marie, decide that since the world is spoiled, they will be spoiled as well, embarking on a series of destructive pranks. Frequently switching between black and white, colour, filtered or tinted footage, and kaleidoscopic montages, Daisies is an exuberant call to rebellion, pairing its radical aesthetic with its main characters' debauched odyssey of nihilistic pursuit of pleasure.
